You're invited to an exclusive opportunity to visit the Australian Wildlife Conservancy's Yookamurra Wildlife Sanctuary.

Step inside the 1,100 hectare, feral predator-free area, normally closed to the public, which is home to some of Australia's most threatened wildlife such as the Greater Bilby, Numbat, Burrowing Bettong and Brush-tailed Bettong.

Immerse yourself in the Mallee, and discover the tracks and traces of nocturnal mammals. Learn of ways to reverse the tide on extinction, and have all your questions answered over a relaxing barbecue lunch.

Find out how AWC is helping to save Australia's endangered animals, and how you can help reverse the tide of extinction.

AWC is the largest private (non-profit) owner and manager of land for conservation in Australia, with an expanding network of sanctuaries and properties across more than 4.6 million hectares.

RSVP to the Yookamurra Wildlife Sanctuary open day is essential.

Access will not be permitted without prior registration.

Please register your interest at yookamurra@australianwildlife.org or by calling 08 8562 5011 by Monday 21 May 2018.
